

The Case for All Orbits: Why We Need GEO, MEO and LEO

Each type of orbit is needed to achieve true global connectivity and support a variety of applications.

Offering high-capacity usage in hard to reach areas

Providing a large field of view at a faster rate

Low-latency connectivity allows for real-time transactions

A resilient option when secure communication is critical

